A year 2020 strongly impacted by Covid-19

Despite the possibility to travel in the second half of the year, the demand for travel has decreased sharply compared to 2019.

Although demand remained weak in December, LuxairTours recorded a peak in last minute bookings for the Christmas holidays. The bookings even exceeded those of the same period in 2019.

Unfortunately, this increase could not be witnessed by Luxair for flight-only travel, for which the number of passengers decreased by 2/3 compared to 2019.

Closely related to the decline in Luxair's activity, LuxairServices Catering recorded a 65% drop in the number of meals produced for Luxair in 2020 and an 8% drop for third party companies.

Meanwhile, LuxairCARGO achieved +6% of its handled volume, with a record activity in November 2020 (96,524 tons).

2021 will remain impacted by the Covid-19 crisis. LuxairTours recorded a 63% drop in its bookings for the beginning of the year compared to 2019. As for the airline, it has seen a 78% decrease in its reservations over the same period.

Luxair and LuxairTours remain positive about the developments and continue to offer a relevant and attractive travel offer to their customers.
