Important information to Luxair passengers

Luxair would like to apologise for the flights that the airline has been forced to cancel as well as for the delays caused over this weekend.

Indeed, over this Pentecost weekend, a Luxair Boeing 737-800 has encountered a technical problem and the spare parts must arrive from the United States which causes important delays. Additionally, an aircraft, which Luxair leases from German Airways, also has a technical problem, which makes it unusable.

All of Luxair teams are doing their utmost to minimize the impact on passengers.
